Jason Parks

Jason Parks had spent most of his life feeling as if success was just beyond his reach, while others around him seemed to effortlessly thrive. Despite his studies in spirituality and energy work, he struggled with feelings of insecurity and incapability, his life a constant battle without any visible rewards. This perplexing state of affairs persisted for years.

At 40, a diagnosis of complex PTSD shed light on his struggles, tracing back to experiences that began even before his birth. The impact of glandular fever at age 5 and ongoing burnout from age 12 had entrapped him in a relentless cycle. When his business failed and his relationship faltered, he hit rock bottom and realized the need for change. He took proactive steps, securing a new job and mending his relationship, gradually cultivating happiness.

However, life soon presented new challenges. Jason's physical and mental health declined sharply, coinciding with the loss of his father and his resignation from his job. His family moved to a new city for his wife's job, and doctors informed him he could never work again.

A decade ago, amidst these struggles, Jason's true recovery began with the guidance of an extraordinary mentor. This mentor exemplified ethical spiritual work and aided Jason in integrating his past experiences, launching him on a transformative journey. He gained new perspectives on reality creation, altering his life's trajectory.

From there, Jason's life transformed remarkably. He understood that life was not about chance or luck but about comprehending universal laws and having the tools to apply this knowledge. Today, he enjoys a loving marriage, two daughters, excellent physical and mental health, and runs a successful business mentoring people worldwide. His client sessions have increased from a few every few months to 500-800 annually, and his income has consistently doubled each year. Jason believes he's only beginning to tap into what's possible.

This journey led Jason to realize that transformation is achievable for anyone willing to align with the universe's fundamental principles. He now invites others to join him in this journey of self-discovery and empowerment, assuring them that their potential is limitless. Jason's story is an invitation to embark on a transformative voyage, unlocking the secrets of the universe together.

Jack Romano

Meet Jack, once a shy and introverted individual who was terrified of speaking to people. He couldn't even muster the courage to ask for a fork if he dropped one or engage in simple conversations. It seemed impossible for him to approach a counter or initiate social interactions.

But today, Jack's life is an awe-inspiring testament to the power of the human spirit. Since the young age of 16, he has been soaring across Australia, running mass healing sessions fueled by the power of his spirit. Miracles unfold in his presence, with women who were once scheduled for surgeries finding that they no longer require them, and men burdened by deep issues finding release. Deep emotional wounds and the weight of PTSD dissolve under his extraordinary healing touch.

Despite his previous fear of relationships, Jack has defied the odds and manifested a beautiful, divine partnership with a loving Queen. This union demonstrates Jack's true growth and his realization of his own worthiness in matters of the heart.

At the age of 13, Jack faced an enigmatic knee issue that left doctors, chiropractors, surgeons, and medical experts perplexed for four long months. Seeking answers, he created space for a self-healing miracle, and within just five minutes, he was able to move and work unaided, astonishing everyone around him.

Motivated by these miracles and the transformative experiences in his own life, Jack made the profound decision to help others. He delved deeply into the realms of manifestation, spirituality, and energy healing, uncovering ancient abilities within himself. Jack now possesses the remarkable skill to read faces, bodies, and energy fields, adeptly identifying and removing blocks, curses, trauma, spells, and entities that hinder his clients' well-being. With grace and ease, he opens the door for them to experience the incredible power of spiritual and energetic miracles.

Jack's journey from a shy and fearful individual to a catalyst of healing and empowerment is a shining inspiration to all. It serves as a reminder that with unwavering determination, faith, and an embrace of our innate abilities, profound transformation is possible.
